I'm writing because my family and I were affected by the economic collapse of 2008, and we don't want it to happen again.

My own personal situation was greatly affected by the economic downturn, plus many of my family and friends. I travel to Europe frequently and I have seen, first hand, how it has affected them. As you probably realize the situation has not been good for many people, but am pleased to see governments doing their best to keep their people employed, especially the young people, and providing help whenever it is needed. Because of the economic downturn many people have been angry with the US because of the irresponsibility of Wall Street, banks, and lenders. To continue to reward these people for their greed and selfishness is outrageous. To me, they have committed crimes against humanity and should be appropriately treated.

Thank you for considering my comment,
